Details

If we are feeling under the weather is it always best to take some time out and distract our mind from any worries. With our new get well gift range this is possible as we focused on including more entertainment gifts rather than get well food. If you know someone who prefers mental stimulation over food when they are feeling unwell, then this get well gift would be perfect for them. We have included a light hearted reading novel, dice games and sudoku so they have a variety of entertainment options to chose from when they don't feel like catching up on TV. There is also a fun bucket with a bucket list of 100 interesting things to see which they can research in their own time and even plan to visit once they are feeling up to it! In our get well gift baskets we always include some snacks, for this basket we selected healthy snacks which can be enjoyed with a cup of organic tea to warm the heart, they could be sitting down to read their new novel with a cup of tea and some chocolate bites, how relaxing does that sound. We purposefully chose a warm orange colour to give the recipient a little mood boost, they will recognise and appreciate the warm tones and sentiments this Get Well Thinking Gift brings when unpacking all of the goodies inside. Thanks to the versatile range of products and colours within this Get Well Thinking Gift basket it is available for either men or women who enjoy mental stimulation and healthy snacks. They will be on the mend in no time with their thoughtful get well gift!
