Details

Christmas is a great time for reflection. Time seems to slow down at that time of year. You're doing well if you know what day it is between Christmas day and New Years Day. Why not spend one of those days reflecting over what a year you've had over some of the delicious treats offered in this Christmas Reflections Gift Basket? Or spend a day reflecting on Christmases past while you dig into these lovely treats, I know I'd love to, I'm sure you will too! There is a bright yellow colour theme in this Christmas gift, chosen purposefully to be bright and cheerful. When we choose the products for our gifts, obviously it is very important to us that they taste good and that the individual tastes of the products complement each other. It is also important to us that the colours of the products work together so that when the gift is packed ready to be sent out for Christmas it looks good. We know that when people are sending gifts they want the gift to show how much that person means to them and our gifts do just that. In presentation, thought and style our gifts show the recipient that they were ordered with love and care and packed with thought to show this. Christmas Reflection will come in a gorgeous presentation box that reads A little box of happiness just for you! The reason people return to us year on year for Christmas presents, for themselves and others, is the amount of detail that goes into the creation of each gift, this is not a selection of products, this is a whole gift, with every product questioned and trialed to see if anything better could be placed in, this creates a gift, something infinitely better than just a selection of products.
