Quick Overview

You can wish love, health and happiness upon someone but sometimes there is something more you can do... you can send a thoughtful get well soon gift filled with creative, inspiring sentiments.

Details

Believe it or not, tapping into our creative energy can actually improve our overall health. This might sound too good to be true, but simply engaging in creative behaviour such as adult colouring can improve brain function, mental health and physical health. If you know someone who isn't themselves recently and is feeling quite uninspired, this get-well soon gift would be ideal to lift their spirits and remind them to spend some time focusing on their mental health. Our all new Creative Thoughts Get-Well gift basket has lots of stimulating activities packed inside, such as an adult colouring book and pencils, a brain training game, Rubik's square puzzle, colour block cube, a fun bucket list, and a brain games puzzle book with the quote from Albert Einstein, "creativity is intelligence having fun". Sometimes we just need to give people a reminder of how special and important they are. After sending this wonderful get-well gift they will realise exactly how special and unique they are. When creating gifts we never forget about the tasty snack element of a hamper, for our new Creative Thoughts Get-Well gift we included healthy, guilt free snacks. Such as ethical chocolate, organic oat cookies, chocolate enrobed fruits and other interesting treats. There is also a traditional get-well soon drink of apple juice to accompany the snacks. Creative Thoughts Get-Well gift basket has a pretty pink colour theme running through it, illuminating sentiments of self love and inner peace. After a relaxing afternoon engaging in some of the creative puzzles within this gift basket the recipient will be feeling more refreshed mentally. Send this get-well gift basket of happiness and love to someone who needs some extra love, support, and health.
