Details

It has been well known for years that how we feel physically and mentally is somewhat dependant on what we eat, and the past year has reminded us how important it is to eat healthy to keep our strength and immunity up. Many people have learnt this lesson and have began looking for healthier food alternatives to traditional sweets and crisps as snacking options. With this in mind we created a range of Get Well Hampers that focus on healthy, but tasty food. Our new range of Eat Well Get Well Hampers were initially created for someone who needs a cheer up gift from a friend, relative or beloved one. Get Well Hampers are an especially popular gift after an operation or if someone has been unwell and needs a little pick up. Eat Well Get Well Hampers are ideal for someone who is conscious of what goes into their diet but still enjoys tasty snacks. Guilt free treats are an expanding market and we are happy to offer more and more healthy food to our customers. This Get Well Ethical Hamper in particular has a lot to offer, such as gluten free almond biscotti, plant based gummies, vegan butter cups, ethical chocolate and other snacks to be enjoyed with a cup of organic tea to warm the heart. Not only are these products better for the body, they are also better for the environment with some of the products having eco-friendly packaging and using plant-based resources. Thanks to the versatile range of products and colours within our Get Well Hampers, they are unisex and therefore would be suitable for anyone who needs a pick me up gift. Sending a Get Well Hamper is more than just sending a basket of food treats, it is sending thoughtful gift to let someone know that they are in your thoughts. We believe our Get Well Hampers do just that.
