Details

Food can affect the way we think and the way we feel. It is becoming more and more evident of the role that food plays on our health. With this in mind we created a range of get well hampers jam-packed with healthy treats and snacks. Our new range of Get Well Hampers were initially created for a beloved one who needs a gift to cheer them up from a friend, relative or colleague. Get Well Hampers are an especially popular gift after an operation or if someone has been unwell and needs a little pick up. Eat Well Get Well Hampers are ideal for someone who is conscious of what goes into their diet but still enjoys tasty snacks. People are becoming more and more aware of what goes into their body and the effects it can have. Therefore we are becoming more conscious of what we choose to eat and are often opting for healthy, guilt free snacks. Within our eat well get well hampers you will find an abundance of tasty treats, without having to worry about feeling lousy afterwards. And it will leave them with Clear Conscience. Within this hamper in particular there is a great selection of snacks, there are chocolate covered nuts providing a great source of protein for when energy is low, ethical dark chocolate low in sugar, plant based gummies, and much more. We have also included a large bottle of coconut water to fill the body with vitamins and nutrients, this is especially important when we are unwell as we often lose our appetite and don't consume the correct nutrients to stay healthy. Of course when we are unwell we enjoy a cup of tea to keep our bodies warm and relaxed, which can be enjoyed with many of the treats packed inside. There is a peaceful and relaxing blue colour in this hamper, the recipient will be feeling tranquil when unpacking their lovely Get Well Clear Conscience Hamper. Thanks to the versatile range of products and colours within our Get Well Hampers, they are unisex and therefore would be suitable for anyone who needs a pick me up gift. Sending one of our Get Well Hampers is more than just sending a basket of food treats, it is sending a thoughtful gift to let someone know that they are in your thoughts. We believe our Get Well Hampers do just that.
