Quick Overview

Thank You Gift designed for all those times when you want to say thanks, but aren't quite sure of an effective way of doing so. How many times has a friend or colleague, or it could be a completely random stranger performed an act of generosity, towards you? You know that they will refuse any offer of money, so you're looking for a Thank You gift, which is personal without being too specific.

Details

We've become conditioned to using intangible things as an expression of our thanks with the most obvious example of this being money. As we move towards digitalisation of money, we believe there is still a real need for tangible products to reflect important human events and inter-relations. One occasion when this is most apt is when saying thank-you to a friend, family member, work associate or complete stranger who you wish to send a message of thanks. In terms of ideas for what to send we created the Thank-You Gift Connoisseur Hamper. We use The Finest Products, Appropriate Personalisation and Professional Delivery, not just ensuring the gift is assembled perfectly, but that it stays that way on its journey to its destination. The Connoisseur term is more frequently used to describe wine aficionados for example when it comes to assessing the potential for ageing in a young wine through wine tasting. We've taken the word to qualify or bring focused attention to the traditional tea and coffee gift basket design. We've selected humble Teabags, both Tea & Coffee and then we've gathered in lots of wonderful little biscuit varieties, which are perfect for going with them. We've placed particular interest in the selection of great tasting Tea and Coffee Bags in this particular Thanks and hope that if we've got it right, then the Connoisseur's Thank You Gift reviews will reflect this in the coming years.
